The only person standing in favor of the development, was the representative for the development company itself, Lisa Crispo. Gulf Coast Equities is asking that R-1 zoning be changed to a Waterfront Special Use District to accommodate between 132 and 162 townhouse units, the final number remaining unclear. Those in opposition spoke for nearly two hours.

As county budget talks begin, rising expenses and growth in the area are two reasons department heads are giving for their requests for additional funding. On Monday, the Hancock County Library, tax assessors office, and the building office presented a wish list for 2005/2006. All three departments asked for additional funding.

The Hancock County Library System is asking Supervisors to increase their budget by about 34 percent over last year, said county comptroller Sissy Gonzales. Last year's allotment of $970,000 of county funds was not enough to keep up with the demand for library services, said director Prima Plauche.

This year the library sys-$1,298,286 in county funds. two cities, the state, and with $25,000 for interface other miscellaneous income, the system will be operating with a projected budget of $1,677,141 in 2005/2006.

Of that number, close to a million dollars will go for salaries and benefits. Another $234,111 will be spent for operations and maintenance, with $175,000 going for new books and materials. The library no longer operates the literacy program. Pearl River Community college has taken over the operation of the G.E.D. program.

The tax assessor's office is requesting about a $100,000 or seven percent increase over last year's budget of $1,427,144 for total projected expenditures of $1,530,745. Of that figure, $904,000 will be budgeted for the assessment side of the office, with $548,000 budgeted for the collection side. Of the requesting remaining funds $53,327 will be budgeted for the With contributions from the solid waste department computer systems.

Tax assessor collector Jimmie Ladner is asking for a $1.00 an hour across the board raise for employees and for an additional employee on the collection side. Currently 14 employees handle the collection of taxes, licensing and other fees. They handle about 130.000 transactions a year, Ladner said.

Twelve employees handle reassessment, appraisals and other duties.

Ladner is also requesting two new vehicles for the assessment office. Teams of two appraisers now use the county vehicles assigned to the office. Two more vehicles would allow appraisers to travel separately.

Though he will not have a set rate for millage value until August 5, Ladner said that with new growth ad valorem tax revenues will surpass projected figures, with a mil either equal or surpassing projected values.

All the new growth is what has prompted building official Mickey Lagasse to request a 49 percent increase in his office's funding for the 2005/2006 fiscal year, he says.

Lagasse's $296,830 request is up from $184,472 funded last year. Because of increase in permit applications, Lagasse said, he is asking for two new employees, one to work in the office and one to work in the field, a new vehicle for the field employee, and a new computer station for the office.

Lagasse is also requesting a raise for himself of close to $5,000. Lagasse has also requested promotions for two current employees. Salaries account for around 30 percent of the proposed budget. The building office, which brings in revenue from permits and fines, came close to breaking even on last year's budget, said Gonzales, but could run at a loss with new budget requests.

Escaped inmate nabbed in Gulfport

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS Publisher Emeritus

A Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility inmate, who walked away from a work detail, was arrested on the evening of July 15, Sheriff Steve Garber reports.

Investigator Deron Cuevas said, "I was on call last Friday evening when the sheriff's office received word reporting Joseph Daniel Miller, 31, of Biloxi, was captured in Harrison County and being held in their jail."

Investigators report a tip had came in at the Hancock Sheriff's office earlier Friday reporting where Miller could be found and the information was passed on to Harrison County Sheriff's Department.

Investigator Rita Balize-Watson, who is in charge of Miller's escape case said, "He was on a work detail, as he was in jail on a burglary probation violation. He had walked away from a work detail several weeks ago."

Hancock County has a hold placed on Miller. He now faces several charges in Harrison County, including aggravated assault of a police officer, which happened during his K-9 assisted capture, investigators

I also bought bait and ice from Mr. Bordage at Bayou Caddy on numerous occasions. I had a nice visit with him and enjoyed doing business at his marina.

We had dinner at Jacks and at Rickey's in Waveland. It had been fifteen years since I had been to Jacks. The food was excellent and the service great at both of these fine restaurants. We also attended the Presbyterian Church in Bay Saint Louis on two occasions. They had a pot luck brunch and I had the good fortune of experience multiple examples of Southern Cooking. Condos -- Waveland evening. Phase 1 of the sub- development and any over division will remain a single family neighborhood. A public hearing on the matter is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Sundance developer Julie Rosson and potential investor Dan Kelly are asking the city to change zoning in the area from R-1 to R-3 to allow the ten multifamily dwellings. Rosson she said has beenapproached by several interested parties over the past couple of years and this project seemed to her to be the best one for the city.

The completed project will greatly increase tax revenues at the site from around $5,000 a year to $750,000 a year or more, Rosson says, and have a significant impact on sales tax revenues since the residents will be eating and shopping in the area.

"The condos will be aesthetically pleasing," said Rosson. "I feel that this project and the sale will go through, but if for some reason this project is not successful I will still be open to any possibilities. This is by far the best use of the property for everyone involved."

Not everyone agrees with Rosson and the hearing on Monday seems to be gearing up for a large turnout. President of the Beach Front Property Owner's Association Kevin Jordon said his group and others Gulfside United Methodist are opposed to Rosson's Assembly proposed a small-development along the coast.

"We are not crazy about the whole condo craze," Jordon said. "Our association stands behind the idea of maintaining our quiet community as it is. We are concerned about the traffic and the kind of people that this type of development will bring-who will these people be?

We are also concerned that with the overbuilding of condos if there is an overturn in real estate, if this craze bottoms out, it will bring down the real estate market in the area. Allowing this project will open the door for further development. It is not fair to the people living in Sundance and we are sure that the general public is not in favor of this type of development. It seems the only people who are, are the people who stand to make money." plans to immediately build a pool promised to the residents in Phase 1, add a gazebo over the lake and a walking trail to the beach. She did not address the issue of how turning a planned single family subdivision into a large condominium project would affect current residents.

er scale project that would have provided housing to seniors. The project was designed by architect Allison Anderson. Neighbors came out in droves to protest the development, Rosson one of

"There are really no similarities in this project and the one proposed by Gulfside," Rosson said. "I received misinformation on that project, which I now see is a pattern of some groups who really oppose any change, and they employ scare tactics instead of truth. It is a shame because it creates an atmosphere of negativity when, in fact, the project is absolutely positive."

Jordon and representatives from the Waveland preservation group both say that infrastructure problems existing at the time of the Gulfside proposal have not improved. "It is still the same," said Jordon. "We will Rosson said that she oppose this project for the same reasons we opposed the Gulfside project," said preservation Waveland group member Carolyn

Hollister earlier this week. "There is a growing need for condos and the style, height, and design of this particular development will give a win-win for all," said Rosson. "I hope the supporters, as there are many, will raise their voices as have the opponents."

OPEN LETTER TO RESIDENTS OF HANCOCK COUNTY, WAVELAND & BAY ST. LOUIS

The Bay St. Louis City Council voted in, unanimously, a six month moratorium on condos within city limits until some sort of comprehensive plan can be established. We applaud them for their excellent judgment and want to ask that the Waveland Aldermen and the Hancock County Supervisors follow their example. Things are just moving too fast — there's another development hearing for a 240 condo unit in Waveland next week. Suddenly, they're multiplying like flies.

Coastal Community Watch now has over 800 members and we are growing daily. Each one of our members and their families are concerned with the direction that development has taken in our community.

We brought in letters from our membership to the July 21st Hancock County Zoning Board hearing on a request to change the zoning on a parcel of land near the end of Blue Meadow Road from R-1 to a Special Use District. The letters were all responses to a letter we sent out via e-mail to the membership less than 24 hours before the hearing. We need hundreds more over the next week or so.

Our position at CCW remains the same: Not all developments are bad. But the ones applying for permission to change zoning now will set a precedent for all future developments.

We encourage the City of Waveland and the County to work together with the Bay St. Louis City Council and with the help of their constituents (that's you!), come up with some sort of guidelines. This needs to be done NOW, before the barn door gets beaten down in the race to build high density housing in our community. It only makes good sense.

During this time period, the County Supervisors should work with the city officials of both Waveland and Bay St. Louis to come up with a comprehensive development plan for the types and sizes and locations to be allowed."

This is a very reasonable request and we need to PUSH for them to pass it. We're going to deliver as many letters as possible to Waveland officials Monday night and to the Board of Supervisors next week.

Please e-mail CCW at info@coastalcommunitywatch.org stating your concerns about future development in our area, including your name, address and where you vote, as required by the county officials. We will print out the letters and take them to our officials. We also encourage you to contact our city and county officials directly.

Zoning

tion of going from R-1, but of taking away the boat yard." 😜

Crispo was speaking of a grandfathered business that exists on part of the property. County zoning laws require the property to revert to R-1 when the business closes. No new business can open in its place. Applications for the Blue Meadow project and public notices announcing the public hearing list the requested zoning change from R-1 to Waterfront Special Use.

Waterfront districts, county zoning ordinances say, are intended to provide for private and public uses associated with waterfront and allow marinas, marine sales and service, restaurants, lounges and nightclubs, non-gambling game rooms, water related equipment rentals, hotel and motels and dockside gaming establishments. No actual mention of townhouse or condo type projects is made in the ordinance.

Plans presented at the hearing were sketchy, drawing even more opposition. Crispo said the project had been downsized to include 132 units, rather than the original 162 units and 343 parking spaces. A gated entrance originally proposed could be left out of the plans also, she said. The gate would fence off some already existing residences if installed.

Though building official Mickey Lagasse said that a height variance had not feet. Thirty-five feet is the height limit now allowed in the area.

Vague details drew criticism from residents who said that the job of the planning and zoning board was to protect the property rights of residents. Neil Stieffel spoke, he said, representing 150 residents of Jordan River Isles.

"Ladies and gentlemen," Stieffel. "This is wrong any place and any time that you would take an R-1 area and arbitrarily change it to benefit a handful of developers who want to line their pockets at the expense of others."

"You as public officials need to decide exactly who you represent," said Ellis Anderson Anderson presented 68 letters of opposition to the project from members of the Coastal Community Watch. The letters were collected in less than 24 hours, she said.

Many residents comenough public awareness of the proposed project. One adjoining property owner said the building office had not sent any notice of the impending zoning change. "I can't understand why been requested, drawings we were not notified," said showed buildings of up to 56 Gail Russell. "We are right next door."

Many were concerned with the overcrowding that a large development would cause on the small streets and in the narrow canals, both of which are already crowded on weekends and holidays, residents said. That combined with nearby traffic from the casino and high school would make the area unmanageable, many said.

It would be like locating half of the Jordan River Shores development, located on 225 acres, to a five acre piece of property, said another resident. The boat and car traffic would be impassable, he said.

Commissioners said they will look over eyidence, along with an environmental study before making a decision. Although the public hearing is closed, written comments submitted to the planning and zoning office over the next few weeks will be taken into consideration plained that there was not in a decision, said board attorney John Scafidi.

Wings over the Water

Brown pelicans fly in formation over the Mississippi Sound as oceanographer Paul Estronza LaViolette and photographer Mickey Ladner are awed by their majesty.

Flights of the Brown Pelicans

aul, I think they are drawing away from us." We were chasing a large flight of brown pelicans. There were twenty-five or so of the birds flying high in the sky ahead of us, heading east, riding the uplift of warm air generated by the hot coastal road and the onshore breeze. The birds in the very rear were slipping from one side of the formation to the other to get a better lift as well as stay in the draft of the lead birds. I'm not sure why they needed to do this; the lead birds were not working their wings at all, just riding the warm air, wings outstretched in perfect stillness. Perhaps the large flight had somehow disturbed the lift of warm air and the rearmost birds had to constantly adjust to the change.

Views from a Front Porch

by Paul Estronza LaViolette

They were beautiful to watch and I envied the effortless freedom of their flight. Stella and I had spotted them shortly after crossing the Bay St Louis Bridge. With the luck of hitting the traffic lights perfectly, I had managed to stay with them as far as Long Beach. However, I could see a red light ahead of us.

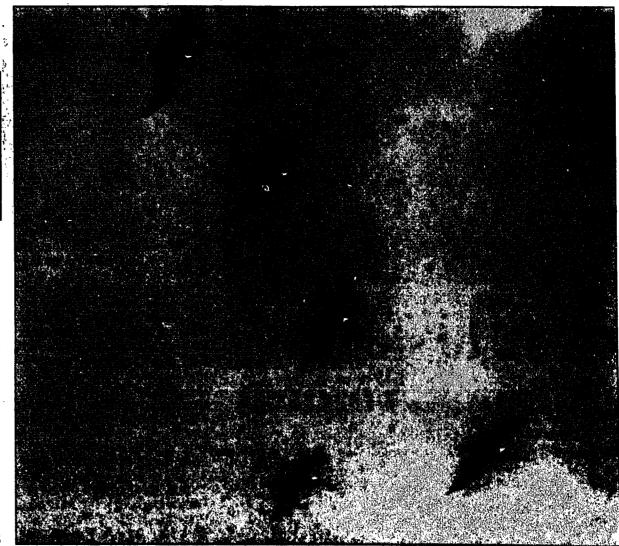

At fifty-five I was speeding, but I was really keeping with traffic. Even at fifty-five, however, the birds were slowly pulling away and the traffic would not let me go any faster. Their speed seemed impossible? They weren't even flapping their wings; just making slight wingtip adjustments. And yet they were moving at a speed that exceeded the highway traffic below them, riding warm air heated by a sun millions of miles away. A hundred feet below, I chased them using a mechanical behemoth that had, since our crossing the bay bridge, used a gallon of Mr. Murphy's cheapest grade and two dollars out of my pocket.

Beach lights stopped me and we watched them fly on. As I waited for the light, Stella pointed to the trees to our left. There, flying impossibly low, almost in the trees, came a second large flock of pelicans.

These were heading west!

When we got home, I called my friend, Mickey Ladner, in Long Beach and asked him if he had noticed the alongshore flights of pelicans. He said he had and had taken some photographs. The pictures on page one are some of those pictures. Mickey is the same person who took the wonderful pictures of the white pelicans that I wrote about last month.

What is good about all this is that the brown pelicans are apparently coming back to the area around our house. Today I've seen hundreds of birds flying over the house going both east and west, moving to some destination of which I have no knowledge. I hope so. We have not seen them in such numbers here for more than a year. Stella and I have missed sitting on our porch and watching their monopolizing our offshore posts and making spectacular splashes as these fished.

Their flights along the shore road these last few days are probably due to Cindy and Dennis, the storms that visited us last week. Now, however, I see several poles in front of the house have pelicans on them and they are fishing. Not too many, but it's a promise that what I'm seeing is the start of their local return.

I hope so.

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Since 1892, The Sea Coast Echo is proud to be a part of your community brings a message of 1101.

But, we must realize that everyone makes wrong decisions from time to time, and what is more important is how we react when we have made a bad choice. Do we fret and condemn others or ourselves, or do we go on with our lives and make the best of our situation? The Bible tells us that, "in everything God works for good with those who love Him, who are called according to His purpose (Romans 8:28)." God has given us the ability to use our free will to make good, prayerful decisions, and when we do, even apparently wrong decisions can often be turned around for something good.

Is mother's breast obscene?

California restaurant recently. ensuing lawsuit wasted three

Just when she was feeling comfortable and content, the grumpy manager came, raised a ruckus and had her thrown out of the restaurant. One would think that Janet Jackson had pulled another shenanigan.

Wisely, the mother filed suit against the cantankerous manager and restaurant. Just as wisely, the courts of California sided with her and slammed him and them with a stiff reprimand and a much stiffer fine for daring to put the mother out of the restaurant on grounds that her breastfeeding the baby was obscene and indecent.

Reflections

on Life

by Father Jerome

LeDoux, SVD

This irrational, unholy thinking has been a veritable disease in these United States where no distinction is being made between a Super Bowl Janet Jackson and a decent mother who is in the act of doing what Mother Nature equipped her to do.

Given the dizzying amount of stupid, truly obscene and indecent exposure of every conceivable anatomical appendage on TV and in widespread periodicals uncensored by the very legislators who condemn breastfeeding, one has to ask in extreme puzzlement:

What on earth qualifies them to be judges of what is obscene and indecent?

Back in 1977, New York mother Barbara Damon was banished from the area of a swimming pool when she whether it was all in the ladies, restroom. After right, a mother revoking her family pass, the began to breastfeed municipality enacted a law her baby in a against breastfeeding. The years, but finally triggered a repeal of the ordinance. In the early 1980s, Marlene Pennekamp was nursing her small baby in her car in St. Louis, when a policeman, searching for a shoplifter, saw her in the midst of her nefarious behavior. The pruriently-bent officer warned her to find another place to breastfeed, lest she be cited for indecent exposure.

Happily, this, plus many indignant letsufficiently shook up the powers-that-be in St. Louis that the County Council quickly passed an amendment to its indecent exposure ordinance, stating that this law did not apply to breastfeeding an infant.

Florida was next in line in 1992, when a mother nursing her infant in a mall was informed that she could be cited for public indecency for breastfeeding out in the open. The mother used her professional skill as a writer to pen an informative, amusing, stinging article on the incident, published in Tropic, magazine of the Miami Herald.

Led by Representative Miguel DeGrandy, who had been breastfed, Florida enacted legislation by far stronger and more extensive than that of New York or St. Louis, acknowledging the basic necessities of nurture and the sanctity of breastfeeding.

have second thoughts about what they were doing and not doing. New York completed what it had set out to do with initial breastfeeding

Hypocritically, a museum in Ohio, which had been allowing mothers to breastfeed their babies for a long time, threw one mother out because she had turned her chair around, thrown a shawl over her shoulder and nursed her baby in an exhibit. The ensuing outcry quickly led to a reversal of the museum's policy. Under similar circumstances, a Texas museum buckled only after national exposure touched off by a nurse-in. Flushed out by the publicity, North Carolina toppled soon afterward, ceding a mother's right to breastfeed her baby. All thoroughly embarrassed, Virginia and Michigan were not far behind in admitting the rights of mothers. This whole obscene/indecent/prurient view of a mother,s breast is a gangrenous leg on which the socio-moral world of society, spurred by the Janet Jackson syndrome, attempts to stand. At best, it is corrupt and shameful. At worst, it is downright evil and sinful.

The other gangrenous leg of the socio-moral world of society is fraught not with hypocrisy and evil, but with profound ignorance of the health implications of a baby's being or not being breastfed. Again at best, a non-breastfed baby will have multiple allergies and other health problems; at worst, very serious, even critical, health issues. Imagine that! The entire socio-moral world of society stands on two gangrenous legs, neither of which will sup-Alerted and shamed by the will ultimately require gradual progress in the worldwide camenlightened legislation enacted or complete amputation. Which paign of breastfeeding.

fter asking a waiter refused to nurse her tiny infant in Florida, other states began to leg is worse? Choose your poison, folks.

Profound ignorance which feeds the gangrene of this other leg overlooks the many benefits of breastfeeding because it does not know them. Ignorance, of course, cannot help itself, but must be bailed out through painstaking education.

For many decades, health scientists have been gathering evidence that breastfeeding brings lower rates of cancers, meningitis, respiratory illnesses, allergies, diabetes, viral and bacterial infections, diarrhea, obesity, stunted development and death itself.

Naturally, the prominent reason for all these benefits is a mother's milk, that wonder of nature which embodies everything a baby needs to build up immunities against each and all of the above-mentioned threats to a sound body, good nerves and healthy emotions.

Breastfeeding has also been tracked as a very fundamental component of the forces which shape the larynx and, of course, the human voice. The power, the timber and the beauty of the human voice owe a great debt to the completely balanced nutrition of mother, s milk. This phenomenon alone is a sufficient reason for breastfeeding.

All these vagaries of legislation birthed in ignorance and wrapped in sexual and social prejudice, are glaring reminders to us how far behind we are in our moral and societal evolution, and how far we still have to go to reach the pinnacle of enlightenment.

Thank God for people and groups like La Leche League International (LLLI) who keep us abreast of problem areas around the country, and, more importantly, of the many snipport the fabric of our lives, but pets of information and

Anger Is Dynamite

Amazingly, the Bible Why? The real sin comes in verbal abuse or worse yet in physical abuse. Anger can build into hate which in turn takes vengeance. And the words of Jesus. "You have heard that the ancients were told, 'You shall not commit murder' murder shall be liable to the court.' But I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother shall be guilty before the court"

(Matthew 5:21-22). Anger, which is not controlled, is a volcano. When it erupts, everyone suffers. Such is The Bible also tells us "out-the "deeds of the flesh"

(Galatians 5:19-20). The Bible exhorts you to "let all can this happen? How can

Here is a clue. "Tremble upon your bed, and be still"

The point is simple.

When we get angry, we tend to attack others. We lash

out at them with a torrent of verbal abuse. The better part of wisdom is to "be still." We should bite our tongues and keep silent.

The DuPont DeLisle Facility ("DuPont"). located at 7685 Kiln DeLisle Road in Pass Christian, MS, (228) 255-2100, has applied to the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality for the following permitting actions: (1) Issuance of the Title V Operating Permit, Air Ref. No. 1020-00115, and (2) issuance of a Prevention of Signiticant Deterioration (PSD) Construction Permit, Air Ref. No. 1020-00115. The applicant's operations fall within SIC Code 2816 - Inorganic Pigments. The permit board will hold a public hearing on this matter at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, August 25, 2005, at the West Harrison Civic Center, located at 4670 Espy Avenue, Long Beach, MS 39560. Dupont is an existing manufacturer of titanium dioxide applying for an initial Title V Operating Permit. DuPont is a major source as defined by Title V of the Federal Clean Air Act due to the potential to emit more than 100 tons per year. by title V of the Federal Clean Air Act due to the potential to emit more than 100 tons per year (tpy) of each of the following criteria air pollutants: particulate matter less than 10 microns (PM10), sulfur dioxide (SO2), nitrogen oxides (NOx), carbon monoxide (CO), and volatile to emit more than 10 tons per year of each of folto erint more than 10 tons per year or each of fol-lowing hazardous air pollutants (HAP): carbonyl sulfide (COS), chlorine (Cl2), hydrogen chloride (HCI), hydrogen fluoride (HF), and methyl ethyl ketone (MEK); and the potential to emit more than 25 tons per year of total hazardous air pollu-tants. The plant is also a major stationary source for PSD purposes. The Title V Operating Perm contains State and Federally enforceable cond contains State and rederaily enforceable condi-tions based upon the requirements of the State of Mississippi Air Emissions Operating Permit Reg-ulations for the Purposes of Title V of the Federal Clean Air Act (APC-S-6) and other applicable requirements. Applicable requirements include those originating from previously Issued federally enforceable permit contains monitoring and testing requirements to ensure the source's compliance irements to ensure the source's compliance requirements to ensure the source's compliance with the applicable requirements. DuPont is also proposing a project, known as the "TRI Project", to accomplish the following: (1) install thermal oxidizers for the purpose of reducing COS and CO emissions from the Line 1 and Line 2 HCI Recovery Processes, (2) install titanium tetracholoride (TiCl4) purification equipment to reduce maintenance downtime or improve reliability, and (3) combine VOC emission limitations for the Line 1 and Line 2 emission limitations for the Line 1 and Line 2 Product Dryers, as well as allow the use of additives containing some HAP. This project will constitute a major modification under the PSD regulations, with actual-to-potential increases of PM/PM10, NOx, and sulfuric acid mist (H2SO4) above the PSD significance thresholds of 25/15 tpy, 40 tpy, and 7 tpy, respectively. Therefore, DuPont must perform a Best Available Control Technology (BACT) Analysis and an Air Quality Impact Analysis.

Since the "TRI Project" is subject to the PSD regulations, which set certain requirements on nermissible incremental impact on air quality regulations, which set certain requirements on and the degree of control of air contaminants, it has been reviewed for compliance with those regulations. The project will be located in a PSD Class II area and the following consumption of air quality increments is predicted to occur: Particulate Matter Less than 10 microns Annual 5.95 micrograms per cubic meter or 35.0% of the 17 micrograms per cubic meter increment 24-Hour 26.31 micrograms per cubic meter or 97.7% of the 30 micrograms per cubic meter increment.

Annual 12.18 micrograms per cubic meter or 48.7% of the 25 micrograms per cubic meter increment.

The Title V permit is a Federally-en-Control Law. The Title V permit is a Federally-en-forceable permit as well as a State permit. There-fore, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will also be allowed an opportunity to review the Title V application, proposed permit, and all comments received during the public comment period prior to Permit Board action on the Title V application. EPA is also allowed an opportunity to review the PSD application and proposed PSD permit concurrent with the public comment period. EPA's 45-day review period of the Title V permit will start once the public notice period has been completed and EPA receives notification from the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality that comments have been received and resolved.
